

WHIP CURRENCY BILL
INTO DEFINITE FORMWILSON, McADOO AND OTHERS
WORK TO PERFECT PRO-POSED ADMINISTRATION MEASURE.

MEANS MANY CHANGES

Revolutionary Legislation Would Place
Financial System Under Control Of The Federal Government.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, June 19.—Administration leaders today began an earnest effort to whip the currency bill into final shape and get it into the hands of the president. The bill, which was introduced by President Wilson, Secretary McAdoo and chairmen of the currency committee, will attempt to perfect it as an administration measure.

The measure would revolutionize the banking and currency system of the United States and it has been the aim of its framers to place the financial system under the control of the government.

As now agreed upon the country would be divided into not less than twelve regional reserve banks and all national banks would be members of the reserve association in their respective districts. State banks will be eligible to membership.

Federal Reserve Banks.
The reserve banks will organize federal reserve banks in each district with a minimum capital of five million dollars which will be supplied by the membership banks at the rate of 20 per cent of their capital. These reserve banks will serve as the deposits of the federal government and thus prevent the treasury department from locking up great quantities of money from circulation.

The reserve bank will be a bank of banks with the privilege of rediscounting commercial paper. In the place of national bank notes which will be retired over a period of twenty years, the government will issue to the federal reserve banks a new kind of currency, probably to be designated as "federal reserve treasury notes."

Plan Elastic Feature.
The limit of this issue will be five hundred million dollars and it will be backed by the power of the quality of other valuable security. Elasticity will be given the system in this manner while these notes will be redeemed in gold by the treasury of the federal reserve.

Means are taken to protect the United States. 2 percent bonds which now form the security of the national bank notes by permitting the gradual retirement of these notes over a period of years and their exchange for 3 percent bonds without the circulating privilege.

Voice of Government.
The government leaders declare will have a voice in the management of the new system. Directors of the federal reserve bank will consist of three members chosen by the federal reserve board one of whom shall be chosen by the public interest in the district and three elected by the banks.

The federal reserve board will consist of nine members, composed of six members chosen by the secretary of agriculture and probably an other cabinet officer as ex-officio members, and three members chosen by the president or the United States and three by the central reserve banks.

Democratic members of the senate finance committee who have completed their revision of the rate schedule in the Underwood tariff bill, making many reductions in nearly every schedule and adding a new free list, declared that the total of their alterations will increase the estimated revenue to be derived from the bill as it passed the house by more than five million dollars. The bulk of this increase has been provided by taking bananas from the free list and making them dutiable at five cents a bunch on the ground that they are controlled absolutely by a monopoly and by the tariff. The bill also exempts brandies used in fortifying wines from the full internal revenue tax of $1.10 a gallon. These two changes, the committee estimates will bring an annual revenue of about nine million dollars.

CALLS FOR CAUCUS

Senator Kern, the majority leader sent out today a call for all democratic senators to attend the county caucus tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The caucus will be held at the county courthouse and will be a general debate. The majority of the finance committee continued work today on the administrative section of the bill. The committee will have those features conform to a bill designed to foster competition. Some of the more dramatic provisions of the Underwood bill will be revised.

Martin claimed the teachers' retirement fund law should be continued longer before any radical amendments are proposed. Teasdale said the amendment he had offered to the Albers bill followed out the plan adopted in all retirement fund laws in European countries. It proposed that the teacher might withdraw any amount she had paid in at any time and receive in addition thereto three times the interest on the amount. Senator Albers said this was the first time he knew there was a Wisconsin law so sacred that an amendment to it could not pass. On motion of Senator Martin the bill was indefinitely postponed by a vote of 17 to 11.

REAR-ON COLLISION CAUSES MUCH DELAY

Serious Accident This Side of Waukesha This Morning Ties Up Traffic—No One Injured.

Janesville was without train service between here and Milwaukee this morning due to a rear-on collision between two freight trains three miles this side of Waukesha at an early hour this morning. There was no one hurt, as the crew in the train which was wrecked had a chance to escape. Both freight trains were running along together, one back of the other. The train in the lead had air trouble, and the brakes tightened up, causing the train to come to a sudden halt. The train in the rear had little time to stop up, as both trains were running at a good speed and very close together. The rear train crashed into the one in front, and it had stopped, and completely demolished twenty freight cars, and forced the engine off the track. The track was torn up badly, and telephone wires and poles were also somewhat damaged. The cars soon caught on fire and the entire freight train soon was in ruins. The wreck was a bad one for the reason that it cut all train service off between Janesville and Milwaukee, and here to other points. Train No. 21, which leaves here in the morning at ten-fifty for Mineral Point, was unable to pass Waukesha this morning, so to accommodate the passengers, train No. 1, which was here for Milwaukee at ten-fifty, was turned here, gathering the Janesville bound passengers at Waukesha and returning to Janesville. This train arrived here at three-thirty this afternoon. The passengers and the passengers for Mineral Point and other points on this line, a special was made up here, which left at one-thirty this afternoon.

RUSH OF BUSINESS FOR SECOND PAPERS

Clerk of Court Runs Short of Application Blanks and Sends Wire For New Supply.

Rush of business in the office of the clerk of the court, Jesse Earle's office, during the past week in the matter of applications for second papers, has caused the supply of blanks on hand, necessitated a hurry-up wire to Washington for a new supply. They will be received Saturday which is the last day for filing applications to be heard the September term of the circuit court. Consequently no applications can be made out tomorrow and Saturday will be an unusually busy day, judging from the number who have appeared during the past week seeking full citizenship rights. The fact that first papers issued under the old law will be void after June 28th, accounts for the rush at this time. Such foreigners born residents will have to take out another set of first papers and wait the required two years. Saturday, however, is the last day for filing applications to be heard at the next term of court.

FINDS STATE PRISON IS A "SWELL PLACE"

Rennie Herdendorf, Taken There Yesterday—For Four Years' Sojourn, Very Favorably Impressed.

"My, but ain't this a swell place," ejaculated Rennie Herdendorf, yesterday afternoon to Sheriff Whipple as they drove up the flower bordered drive through the green lawns in front of the state's prison. Herdendorf was taken there to serve four years' imprisonment for the robbery of John Anderson whom he held up in an alley to the rear of the Nolan grocery on South River street on the night of June 6. After the jury brought in a verdict of guilty Tuesday night Herdendorf was considerably downcast and he was in even lower spirits after the sentence was passed upon him, but his first impressions of the great penal institution were such as to make him feel more hopeful. Bert Kelley, the young man who was taken to Waupun for four and a half years for sharing in the theft of the automobile of Thomas Steele, chairman of the town of Union, is also so of the impression that the state prison is not the worst place to be consigned. As he was riding to the prison with the sheriff last week, the latter asked him how it could be that one who had spent three years in prison could deliberately commit a crime that would send him back again. He replied that the prison was a good place to stay and that the time would pass quickly. Joseph Kelley, one of the two men convicted of burglarizing the home of Dr. W. A. Mann on Wednesday night, June 11, and with his accomplice, William King, sentenced to the state prison for three years, recognized as a former habitue on his arrival at the prison. On investigation it was found that he completed a two years' term for burglary there about two months ago, being sentenced under the name of E. Lane and that he had a brother there who was serving eight years' time. When Kelly (or Lane) was sentenced here he was three months' younger than he never been under arrest before. The judge and sheriff were given the impression that he was the less culpable of the two and inclined to take his word. The criminal record of King, if any, has not yet been learned. The two pins that were missing among the booty recovered from the burglars have not been recovered. Each was questioned separately and said that they must have lost them as they were not sold or pawned.

While most of the doctors were absorbed in the discussions before the convention, the political bee was working overtime. The election of officers will be held late this afternoon, as will also the city for the next meeting be selected. The house of delegates, at its morning session adopted a resolution presented by the committee on education and by-laws concerning the terms of the secretaries of the various sections from one year to three. Leprosy is steadily increasing in the United States, according to Dr. Rupert Blue, surgeon general of the United States public health service. Dr. Blue's address told of the continued propagation and spread of the disease. The doctor discussed the present state and federal laws relative to the disease and urged the advisability of government supervision. Measures for the control of the disease and the care of those afflicted were absolutely necessary, declared Dr. Blue.

Medical inspection in the schools has revealed many defects in the older children who attend the public schools, declared Dr. Walter S. Corneil of Philadelphia. The following are some of the defects shown according to Dr. Corneil: 1. Frequency of eye strain, ear, chest, teeth, poor nutrition, flat chest, mental retardation, among children. 2. Present text books do not emphasize the result of eye strain, nasal obstruction, poor heredity, the cause of tuberculosis, myopia, defective hearing, discharging ears, diabetes, scarlet fever, nervous disorders, feeble mind, and decay of teeth. 3. Future general medical practice should include subjects just mentioned and consider personal hygiene, ventilation, house cleanliness, sleep, exercise, sex hygiene, diet, tobacco and alcohol. 4. The accurate knowledge of the practicing physician is now mainly concerning the action of drugs. Present statutes of general medical knowledge, the writer's experience as a college instructor and medical examiner.

5. Remedy: The socialization of medicine and inclusion of eye, nose and throat into the field of general practice also our positive, reserved approval of the retention of the family physician as general consultant in health matters.

FORECASTS PASSING OF SHYSTER LAWYER

Chief Justice J. B. Winslow Addressing Graduating Law Class, Says Ideals of Profession Grow Higher.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., June 19.—Chief Justice J. B. Winslow of the Wisconsin supreme court forecasted the passing of the lawyer who seeks riches at the expense of the administration of justice, in addressing the law class of the University of Wisconsin upon their admission to the bar yesterday afternoon.

"I know of no profession," he said "where there are greater opportunities for efficient service to the state and to one's fellow citizen than the law. On the other hand, there are correspondingly great opportunities for evil. A high minded lawyer is one of the very best citizens, an ignorant or dishonest lawyer is one of the worst. I believe that the day when the lawyer regarded his profession as simply a business wherein he earned his living or amassed wealth is rapidly passing away, and that more and more every year lawyers are coming to advance the administration of justice rather than to become rich. The lawyer who keeps this idea always in mind and endeavors to live up to the high standard which it carries with it, to realize, to do greater service to the cause of good government, good citizenship, and good morals than any member of the other secular professions."

The chief justice called the attention of the class to the various provisions of the oath, and advised that unless they were fully determined to live up to it, it would be better if they "did not take it at all." The following graduates were admitted to practice: Irving W. Smith, Niagara; Adolph Heinz, Madison; Stephen A. Barrett, Chippewa Falls; Emil C. Cady, Milwaukee; Howard T. Foulkes, Milwaukee; Quincy R. Jones, Freeport, Ill.; (Madison); William H. Spohn, Janesville; Edward J. Gehl, Hartford, Conn.; James J. McDonald, Centerville, La.; Lorenz, Milwaukee; Oliver R. TIT FOR TAT.

With the question of the militant suffragettes of England still unsettled, with Illinois on record as having advised the equal suffrage problem exchange brings up the question of a task for women, in the following pointed paragraphs that appears on the surface to have a lot of truth in its claims. It says:

"Might not the women who argue so earnestly and logically for equality of civil rights between the sexes materially advance their cause by accepting and advocating and seeking to enforce equal responsibility, even in the criminal courts? For that equality, seemingly a corollary if not a prerequisite to woman suffrage, is still far distant.

"Hardly had a confessed perjurer been exempted from punishment in

New York, admittedly for no other reason than that she was a woman, when a woman on trial for murder in Uniontown, Pa., obtained her freedom by a timely show of dementia. Testi-

The German army is conceded to be the most formidable the earth has ever seen. In recent years the German navy has been very strong, though nothing like the army in its relative position. When a man has in his possession the most powerful force ever organized the temptation to use it is often hard to resist, under circumstances which provoke anger and resentment. The great power of Germany has made the peace record of the emperor William II. the more remarkable and praiseworthy.

Now he declares himself hopeful of twenty-five years more of peace and the world believes he means what he says. It no longer suspects the Kaiser of seeking war.

Even tar poured on the streets these hot days shows some signs of becoming a sort of an oil although it does remain a sticky mass, a menace to every housewife who hates dirt tramped into her home. Oiling the streets is all right if the oil is not tar when put down and remains so until the very end.

One by one, old institutions are passing away. A picture of Uncle Joe Cannon has been published without showing a long, black stogie in his mouth and Senator Jim Ham Lewis is talking about cutting off his whiskers.

Janesville is to have its share of thrills in the next few weeks. What with an auto race next week, and auto, motorcycle and horse racing on July Fourth there should be plenty of amusement for all.

Joe King Morse has been made the president of a big New York corporation. Yet there are ex-convicts who claim that it is difficult to obtain good jobs after being released from prison.

Some day, some judge is going to surprise the world and shock the legal profession, by giving a perfectly clear, self-interpreting decision in about twenty words.

With fifty applications for retail liquor licenses on file the council will have to drop ten names if they follow out their own rulings as to limiting the number to forty.

Emerson says: "Write it in your heart that every day is the best day in the year." That's too much for most of us. The home team doesn't win every day.

The much-talked-about concert of the powers is not particularly musical, which may account for the fact that the Balkan states are not asking for an encore.

If the senate succeeds in its investigation of the lobby, it will be able to get out a "Who's Who" for Washington which will be of some real use.

If England wants a poet laureate who can do justice to the militant suffragists, why doesn't it turn Rudyard Kipling loose on the job?

It isn't going to be an easy matter for the sugar lobby, after admitting that it spends $400,000 a year, to prove that it doesn't exist.

A Chicago physician declares that walking is not beneficial. Obviously good practice among automobilists is something worth having.

The state legislature decided the Baker law was all right after all and refused to pass any amendments to it that would nullify its real effect.

"Alfred Noyes, the English poet, is suffering from nervous breakdown." Perhaps he fears that laureate thing will get him.

The English sparrow as a factor in reducing the high cost of living has been long and favorably known to cats.

"Sugar at a Glance," a tariff pamphlet issued by the sugar trust, like all fiction, should be read between the lines.

The insanity plea in New York again. A justice of its supreme court, accused of graft, declares that his accuser is crazy.

A magazine writer estimates that Colonel Roosevelt is worth $200,000. But what about those six cents?

Don't forget that June, besides being the month of bride roses, is also the month of bachelor buttons.

A returned traveler says that New York is a tonic. But some tonics leave a bad after-effect.

The aviation season in Wall street doesn't seem to be starting off auspiciously, this season.

"Keeping the resources liquid is the modern policy." Especially during the fishing season.

"Love conquers all things," said Virgil. But he forgot the tight shoe with a corn inside it.

It seems to be a difficult task to convince those Moros that they have been pacified.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE LAND OF YESTERDAY.

We all journey to it—the land of Yesterday. The sunshine nowhere else has the same golden tint, the grass has not the same soft shade of green, there is not such magic in the bird songs, such verdure on the hills, such pleasant lanes and wood paths, such sweet waters in the rivulets nor quite such true hearted friends in any other region as in this Yesterday country. Of course the Yesterday we mean is that of childhood. Since then we have witnessed scenes famed in song and story, battlefields whose names are household words, celebrated waterfalls. Since then, too, we have been in great cities and sojourned in the mountains and by the sea. Yet have we not found the same charm as this land of Yesterday.

It matters not how insignificant the spot, how common or mean the surroundings, the eyes of a child see beauties hidden from mature vision. And memory itself is an enchanter, so that in looking backward we gaze through a double lens, and somehow the glass transforms the scenes into those of the land of the heart's desire. I think all of us unconsciously picture heaven after the fashion of our land of Yesterday.

However many years and miles we are away, we know every nook and cranny of it—the old fences, the clumps of sumac and alders, the chestnut trees, the apple orchard and cherry trees, the wood lot—every foot of it we have traversed in those far-off days and in our dreams ten thousand times since.

I do not know which is the more enchanting prospect—youth looking forward to the future or age looking backward at the past.

There are doubtless illusions in both views, though it would be cruel to tell of these illusions either to the boy or to the man. The backward look is less feverish, but there is a sadness in it that was absent from the other.

Yet what would life be without some illusions? And there is soul food gathered in these journeys to the land of Yesterday.

SPUR OF THE MOMENT

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself has said:
"Tomorrow I arise at dawn
To mow the lawn?"

Yells there a cat, whose piercing scream
Disturbeth not this poor man's dream,
And till midnight keeps him awake:
For love's sweet sake?

Ticks there a clock whose prompt alarm,
Though faithful, does not lose its charm
To him whose slumber, it would stem
At 4 A. M.?

Sleeps there a wife, by any chance,
Who knows where she can find the pants
That last year he was wont to use,
And his old shoes?

Lives there the man who ever found
His lawn mower till he'd hunted round
The neighborhood about an hour,
With temper sour?

Is there a mower that's been abused,
That comes back home fit to be used,
Without two hours' work being done
To make it run?

Lives there the man who does not take
His mower and hide it, with his rake,
And hire a man to trim his lot?
No, I guess not.

Pity the Poor Microbe.

It is announced that the University of California has received a donation of $1,000,000 from a rich man, the fund to be used in research work among the microbes. It may seem to the lay mind that nearly all of the possible microbes had been discovered already, but this is a common error. The scientists have never yet failed to come to the front with a new microbe when there seemed to be a demand for one. They began discovering them in large and diversified quantities about ten years ago and have been hard at it ever since. One of the first was the drinking cup microbe, but closely following this came the dollar-bill microbe, the door-handle microbe, the telephone microbe, the roller towel microbe, the handshake microbe, the kiss microbe and enough others to fill seven columns in a newspaper printed in agate type.

It is sometimes a question how the forefathers worried along and did everything that they should not do and defied all these germs. With but very few advantages they lived to a ripe old age and the microbes were all about them as thick as mosquitoes in a New Jersey coast village. But now that the work of discovery has secured such a grand start it seems as though it should be pushed to a finish, if there is a finish.

Signs of the Times.
Uncle Joe Cannon is writing for the magazines for a living. Luckily for him he has a large private fortune.

When it comes to calling the colonel names, most people are willing to let George Newett do it.

The new tariff bill admits cutting stones free. Hot, man! Is this a bid for the Scotch vote?

Twenty-five Philadelphia men are missing. Maybe they are only asleep somewhere.

Luther Burbank might invent a stingless mosquito and not make many enemies thereby.

Count Katsura of Japan is trying to overthrow the present cabinet on account of the American situation and this shows that Japan is adopting many of the ways of civilization.

In Detroit a man has been discovered who has been supporting two families on $15 a week. A financier of that kind should in time become Morgan's successor.

An Ohio man claims to have an umbrella that has been in his possession for twenty years. Probably he has kept it locked up in a safety deposit vault.

Some of our actors who get married every month or two must have fine collections of cut glass pickle dishes and gilt mantel clocks by this time.

New York physician declares that only one man in five is fit to marry. Perhaps he means that the other four haven't enough money.

The Atchison Globe says there are many evidences that Kansas is a great state, but the Globe doesn't mention any of them.

No one, not even an expert, can, by looking at a negative, determine exactly how long to print it (expose it) so as to make a perfect picture. With CYKO, if the right time is 20 seconds and you happen to give it 15, the print will still be good. It will take a little longer to develop and that's all. With any other paper the print will be poor because if you force the development it will fog the print will be gray-flat without detail and lifeless.

COUNTY FAIR PLANS INDICATE BIG SHOW

GREAT ENTHUSIASM SHOWN IN THIS YEAR'S EXHIBITION, SAYS SECRETARY GILLMAN.

FINE RACE PROGRAM

Purses Aggregating $4,000 Offered in Speed Events Under Auspices of Grand Circuit of Wisconsin.

"Rock county will have a fair to be proud of this year," said Fred Gillman of Evansville, secretary of the Rock county fair association, who was in Janesville this morning. "We are planning numerous extensive improvements and with a better list of attractions and the support of the farmers, we will have a record-breaking attendance."

The fair this year will be held earlier than usual, the dates being August 20, 21, 22 and 23, the last day being on Saturday. The Saturday feature is expected to bring a much larger crowd than is usual on the last day of a fair.

Mr. Gillman was especially enthusiastic over the speed events which will be the best ever scheduled on the Evansville track. Purses aggregating $4,000 have been subscribed and fully one hundred horses will be on hand for the week. The fact that Evansville is a member of the newly organized Grand Circuit of Circuit of the state at a minimum cost. The other cities in the circuit are: Madison, Reedsburg, Janesville, Beloit, Monroe, Portage and Jefferson.

New horse barns are being erected along the track to accommodate the larger number of fast animals, and the track itself is being put into first class shape. Additional cattle barns are also being built this year and the livestock department will be given special attention.

Among other improvements which are under way at the present time is the new entrance on the east side of the fair grounds, the new and recently opened for the special accommodation of the fair patrons.

Another feature which is entirely new to the fair is the state which promises to be intensely popular is the "baby health contest" which will displace the old beauty contest in the interest of better mothering. In this contest the babies will be judged from the standpoint of physical perfection, general health and strength according to their years, instead of on their beauty and general comeliness. Mrs. O. C. Colony will have charge of the department and the members of the women's clubs of Evansville as well as of the national federation have become extensively interested in the movement which promises to be nationwide in its scope and reach.

A fine list of free attractions have already been engaged and there will be something doing all the time according to Mr. Gillman. "We want to make this fair a worthy institution," he said, "and are sure to succeed if we get the support that we should from all parts of the county. We are looking to Janesville and the other cities for their aid and expect to make the week a record-breaking one. We can safely promise the best fair ever given."

CASE IS APPEALED TO CIRCUIT COURT

Burr W. Tolles Refuses to Accept Judgment of Justice Court in Action Brought by George Keylock.

Appeal from the judgment of the justice court in the case of George W. Keylock versus Burr W. Tolles of Evansville has been made by Mr. Tolles through his attorney, Louis A. Avery, and the case will probably be tried in the circuit court during the summer. The case was tried before Justice Charles Lange on May 26 and Tolles, who is an officer of the Humane Society, was directed to pay $100 to Keylock, the same being the amount of a horse which the former shot on April 23, ostensibly in the performance of his official duty. The defendant and his witnesses attempted to prove that the animal shot was probably injured or diseased. Thomas S. Nolan was the attorney for the plaintiff.

YOUNG SERVIAN WAS DROWNED IN RIVER DURING NOON HOUR

Over a Hundred Fellow Workers on Railroad Bridge Watch Him Die While Two Small Boys Seek to Rescue Him.

With over a hundred fellow workers standing on the railroad bridge watching his attempt to swim across the river just below the structure, Sullivan Lackol, a Serbian workman, aged twenty-two, drowned shortly before one o'clock today.

Charles Hines, 308 Race street, aged twelve, and Claude Novack, 309 Park avenue, went to his aid as he sank beneath the surface of the water.

Lackol had joined the two boys who were playing on a raft near the west shore and told them he was going to swim across the river. He took a plank and struck out into the stream and when a few rods from shore let go his hold on the plank and immediately sank.

The Hines and Novack boys called for help and young Novack pushed the raft out into the river as far as he could, within a foot of the drowning man, but he seemed unable to seize hold of it and without a murmur sank beneath the waters. Two men in a rowboat hastened to the scene but made no concerted efforts to locate the body and, according to the two boys, two men on the bridge tried to save the drowning man. Young Hines telephoned the police of the accident and officers at once began a search for the body.

Lackol had just finished his dinner and it is probable as was mentioned with a cramp. He did not speak after he began sinking and it is possible the men on the bridge thought he was fooling them and did not realize the gravity of the situation. Two of his fellow countrymen had gone into the water on the other side of the river from where he lost his life and he evidently sought to swim across to join them.

The river at this spot is about fourteen feet deep and is very treacherous, there being strong undercurrents to drag the unfortunate man down stream before he had a chance to save himself.

Sullivan Lackol was twenty-two years of age and unmarried. He emigrated to this country a year ago and went immediately into the employment of the Clear-White Construction company, and was working in Iowa before he came here. He has been working in this city on the new bridge about three months.

Immediately after the accident the police were notified and started searching for the body within twenty minutes after the man went down.

The body was recovered this afternoon about 2:30 by W. M. Vader, who fished it from the bottom of the river with hooks in about the same place that the unfortunate man sank.

For the Ironing Board.

Put the ironing board with a thick quilt or old blanket, then lay the board on the table and cut a piece of heavy muslin so it will fit the board loosely. Sew it up, leaving the slip open at each end. Make two of these slips and change them frequently, says Mother's Magazine. Thus the ironing board is always clean, and the padding will not have to be changed for months.

CHANGES MADE IN THE MAKE UP OF VARSITY CREW

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 19.—Coach Vail of Wisconsin announced today that he would keep Boilest as stroke of the Varsity crew in place of Evers, who is at number two in Boilest's place. The coach is not satisfied with Evert at the stroke oar. He did not seem to be able to "hit it up" when called upon and was slow at the cap. Boilest at stroke appeared to be a vast improvement and in a seven mile row in rough water this morning the crew went along in great style.

GOVERNOR VETOES MEASURE FOR INJURY COMPENSATION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., June 19.—Governor McGovern has vetoed a senate bill which seeks to enlarge and make more certain the right to recover damages resulting from injury or death of railway employees occurring in the course of their employment. The objections are the provision that actions under it must be instituted within two years from the day the cause of action arose and that it bars recovery in cases arising more than two years prior to the enactment of the law. The purpose of the bill is commended.

The company plans on carrying passengers, mail, package and light freight. A hearing on the application will be held June 20.

POOR REAP HARVEST ON ALEXANDRA DAY

Alexandra, the Queen Mother.

On June 25—Alexandra day—all England, and London particularly will give proof of its loyalty and affection for Alexandra, the queen mother, by giving lavishly to charity. In London alone forty-three committees are busy making arrangements for the unique charity festival and more than 300 provincial towns and cities have joined the movement, which originated from an idea which came to England from Queen Alexandra's native country, the little kingdom of Denmark.

JOY at Yale

I went to Yale—that classic place, The sights to see last week: Yale, where young blue-bloods of our race The grubs of knowledge seek. One morning as I wandered through the grounds, whom should I see, But him whom I in old days knew— Bill Tat beneath a tree! I greeted him, an answer came; He begged of me to stay. Upon the grass I stretched my frame And then friend Bill did say: "These times are past; I'm happy now. Un vexed by cares of old and new. The laurel crowns my noble brow; My pupils call me great. They tip their hats when I pass by; For me they stop their games; And me their brickbats never fly. They do not call me names. All, all is peace and simple joy; My life is smoother now than any. And let me say to you, my boy, I'm getting it again!"

Into each life some rain must fall. And I have had my share. When Teddy left the capital The world got in my hair. O grief! O gloom! How cruel men Did hurt great bricks at me! They hit me once, they hit me again, And laughed my pain to see. They followed me with vulgar shout. They rode me on a rail. Until I was no longer stout. But grew quite thin and frail.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

There has been little change in the distribution of atmospheric pressure since yesterday. The only notable change is the development of a center of low atmospheric pressure in the upper Missouri valley. This is the result of unusually high temperatures prevailing on the Northern Plains, and the cyclonic circulation of the air attending it will cause the production of high temperatures throughout the Mississippi valley and the Central states.

Thunderstorms are reported throughout the West and Northwest, the precipitation being fairly heavy in Northern Wyoming and western South Dakota.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

PRACTICAL IMAGINATION.
IMAGINATION is not generally considered a practical quality. And yet there are a great many practical matters in which it is of inestimable value.

Shopping, for instance.
The other afternoon a neighbor of mine was bewailing like Flora McFlinty that she had nothing to wear. Her particular complaint was that she had absolutely nothing suitable to put on afternoons in the house.
Now, not a month ago, this woman told me that her husband had given her $100 for her summer wardrobe. And, as I had seen some of her purchases, I knew she had spent part of it, at least, for that purpose. I reminded her of this fact.
"I know it," she said. "I did have $100 and I spent almost every cent of it for clothes, and yet I don't seem to have anything to wear afternoons. That blue charmeuse is too delicate to wear around with the baby, and I don't like to put on my suit in the house because that spoils the looks of the skirt and wears it out before the coat. That serge I bought at such a bargain is too heavy for this weather. So here I am, with my money spent and nothing but a shabby last year's dress to wear afternoons. I ought not to have bought that blue dress, but it was so becoming, and I knew I should enjoy having it for the bridge party. For that price I could have gotten a simple afternoon dress and a less expensive bridge gown. But it's too late now, and the worst of it is that I do this every year—I go in and spend a lot of money and then find that I haven't half covered the ground. Isn't it dreadful?"

Do you know what quality that lady lacks? Imagination.
Let me tell you how the Lady-Who-Always-Knows-Somewhat has taught herself to avoid this predicament—a predicament into which almost every woman of limited means occasionally falls. "Before I go shopping for my season's wardrobe," says the Lady, "I sit down and try to picture just about where I'll be and what I'll be doing each day, so that I can see what I'll need the most. I picture myself from the time I get up in the morning until I go to bed at night. I think of all the things I'm likely to do, and the places I'm likely to go, and I make out a list of the clothes I want. Then I cut it down to the clothes I can't get along without, and then I buy them. Of course, I still make some mistakes, but I find that helps me a lot in getting what I need the most, and not loading up with superfluous things. The Lady, you see, has that invaluable quality, a practical imagination. Perhaps you already apply her method, consciously or unconsciously. If you don't permit me to give it my highest recommendation."

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of eighteen. (1) Please tell me how I can convince my mother and father to leave me go out a little once in a while. They are so very, very strict. They think I should stay in all the time.

(2) I have a girl friend that is a very nice girl, indeed, and she is twenty-five years of age, and of course she goes when she wants to, as her mother and father are dead and she is boarding. Because she goes out a little like the other girls around here, they object to me going with her, as they say she influences me and makes me want to go more when it isn't true. How can I make them like her better, as she is a perfect lady or I wouldn't go with her?

(3) Would you tell them where you were going when you go out? If I do, they certainly do fuss when I get back and if I don't tell them they don't say so much.

(4) I am thinking of going and staying with my aunt. I know she would be nice to me. Would you go?

(5) My mother and father have been sick and I stayed home and did all the work, even to the washing and ironing and still they don't appreciate it enough to quit fussing. Please advise me the best you can. I certainly need it.

(1) I am afraid your mother and father are a little unreasonable, if matters are as they say. Are you sure you do not wish to go any places that nice people would not approve of? You are old enough to know, my dear, where you should and should not go, if you will just consult the honest little voice inside of you. I do not think any young person ought to stay indoors all the time.

(2) Ask them what particular objections they have to this girl. It is possible she has not a very good character. Ask other people what they know about her. If there are no objections to her, keep her friendship. But be SURE.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing.
In cleaning white enamel, woodwork, try using sweet milk and ammonia; two tablespoonfuls of the latter to a quart of milk. This mixture will not turn the enamel yellow, as some cheap kinds of soap are likely to do.

Sweet potatoes are greased before they are put in the oven, they will bake in half the time and the skins will be as soft as if boiled.

When you have a turn buttonhole stitch a piece of closely woven cape to the under side. Now set the edge of the buttonhole to this and cut through the tape. Buttonhole the edge in the usual manner and it will never tear again.

DON'T PULL OUT YOUR GREY HAIR

Keep It and Restore It to Its Natural Color

IT'S SO EASY IF YOU USE HAY'S HAIR HEALTH

Hay's Hair Health always brings back the natural color of youth, to grey and faded hair. Druggists everywhere say that more than any other combined, and that they come back for it again, and again as they find it really does keep their hair dark, glossy and natural color—gives new life and growth to thin, dry hair and stops falling out. If you have Dandruff, there's nothing that will remove it so quickly—that will keep it out so effectively, as Hay's Hair Health. It is not a dye and it's perfectly harmless to use. Will not soil your skin or linen, and besides, no one will know you are using it. The first application will convince you that after a fair trial, you'll have no more grey hair or Dandruff.

Don't wait to think about it—act now. Start using Hay's Hair Health today. You'll never regret it. The following druggists guarantee to refund your money if you are not satisfied with Hay's Hair Health after a fair trial.
Free Sign this adv. and take it to the following druggists and get a 5c. bottle of Hay's Hair Health and a 2c. cake of Harina Soap for 50c., or $1.00 bottle of Hay's Hair Health and two 25c. cakes of Harina Soap for $1.00.

Scoop out the egg plant and place pulp in salt water for one and one-half hours. Then drain and boil tender. Mix with the chopped eggs, onion, seasoning and mushrooms. Moisten well with cream sauce and refill the shell of the plant. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and bake until brown. Never use tin utensils for an egg plant.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

WAIT not till you are backed by a wall. Wait not until you are sure of an echo from the crowd. The fewer the voices on the side of truth, the more distinct and strong must be your own.

MORE SUMMER DRINKS.

Mint is so refreshing in appearance and flavor that even the name calls up delicious drinks. The famous mint juleps of the south were usually made so with liquor, but one may give his friends a drink of fruit juices with no results that are troublesome.

Mint Cup.—Express the juice from five lemons, using a glass squeezer, add the leaves from a dozen stalks of mint, one and a half cupfuls of sugar and half a cup of water; cover, and let stand thirty minutes. Just before serving pour into a pitcher over a large piece of ice, and add three bottles of chilled ginger ale. Put a bunch of mint in the top of the pitcher for a garnish. If no appropriate pitcher is at hand a punch bowl may be used.

Kumis.—Kumis was originally made in Arabia from mare's milk, but is now commonly known in this country and made from cow's milk. It is one of the most wholesome and easily digested of milk drinks; often a weak stomach that cannot digest raw milk will take this milk and assimilate it. To make it, heat a quart of milk to seventy degrees, add a third of a yeast cake dissolved in one and a half tablespoonfuls of water; fill sterilized bottles to two inches from the top and tie down the corks and invert the bottles.

Let stand ten hours in a warm place, then place on ice for forty-eight hours. Be careful when the bottles are opened, or the neighbors will have you arrested for carrying concealed weapons. If the bottles are opened mouth down into a glass you will save decorating the walls of your kitchen.

Pine Apple Lemonade.—Make a syrup by boiling one cup of sugar and two cups of water for ten minutes, add the juice of three lemons and a can of grated pineapple, cool, strain and add four cups of ice water.

An ice cold egg nog is a most refreshing and nourishing drink, and one that is well liked. Beat an egg, add a bit of sugar, pinch of salt and a few drops of flavoring extract, and sufficient rich milk to fill the glass. If one likes it to look extra well, the egg may be separated and some of the white left to put on top of the glass.

Clam Bisque

Creamed Potatoes, Tremont Style
German Tomato Salad
Cheese Drops

Cheese
Coffee

Clam Bisque.
Wash two quarts of clams in the shell, put in a kettle and add sufficient cold water to cover. Cook until the shells are partly opened. Strain the liquor through cheesecloth and add sufficient hot water to make one quart of liquor. Brown three tablespoonfuls of butter in a sauce pan and add gradually three and one-half cupfuls of flour and continue the browning, then pour the liquor gradually on, stirring all the time. Bring to the boiling point, then set on the back of the range to simmer for twenty minutes.

Season to taste with salt and paprika and one cup of cream and serve in bouillon cups with or without whipped cream. If a touch of color is desired, two tablespoonfuls of mince puree, made by forcing canned pimientos through a puree sieve, may be added to a half cup of heavy cream with a trifle of salt and one-half the stiffly beaten white of an egg whipped together. This is an attractive garnish for strong chicken bouillon or tomato puree.

Molded Halibut.
Remove the skin and bones from a slab of halibut and force the flesh through a sieve until a large cupful has been obtained. Pound this in a mortar and add gradually the white of one egg then one cupful of heavy cream and season with salt, pepper and a dash of cayenne. Turn this into buttered individual fish molds, using those in the shapes of fish if possible; set in a shallow pan of hot water and cover with buttered paper.

Bake until firm—from fifteen to twenty minutes. Remove from the molds to a hot serving platter, and insert capers to represent eyes. Garnish with lemon and parsley and serve with lobster sauce. To make this, melt three tablespoonfuls of butter and the same amount of flour; then, while stirring constantly, pour over one-half cup of lobster stock and one-half cup of cream. Bring to the boiling point, then add one-fourth cup of butter, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, season with one-half teaspoonful salt, a dash of pepper, a dash of cayenne and a trifle of paprika. If desired, cut in tiny cubes. At the last moment

Every Day Talks For Every Day People

In this month of roses when so many of our young people are joining hands and hearts and starting life together, older people are rather apt to wonder if and hope they will, make the success of their young people.

This thought don't bother the young people. My no! To them the holy state of matrimony is a land where dreams come true, where life always seems to be worth living just for the sake of being able to be with the one that they this month happily choose from all the world as their partner. May they always be as happy and may they prosper.

However, happiness and prosperity are not little birds that calmly alight on a man's roof-tree to stay, no matter what may happen.

To be prosperous one must endeavor to make each day a success and keep steadily at the work of forging ahead. To not be down-hearted at setbacks and to remember that the bigger the barrier, the more road to success the stronger one's determination should be to surmount it.

No man or woman is any bigger or better than they think they are. To have confidence in your own ability, to learn to depend on your own resources is the way to success.

If we all were a little more contented in the right way—this "making good" would not be an occasional happening.

Be contented! Tell yourself that so long as you keep the law of God there isn't anything you may not do. This is true. If we want some one thing especially, we bend all our efforts toward obtaining it, so, if we are contented enough and work hard enough we can earn the right to have what we want before us.

He who would have must strive. If all our young couples who are starting out so hopefully, so happily, would say to each other, "We will have a home and we will count all striving as not a great to obtain a place of our very own."

This at first may be impossible, but if each month some of young John's salary is put aside as a foundation for the home, (even though the amount be small) before they would realize it, they would have a savings account started.

This is more the woman's work than the man's for while a man can go out and work steadily to earn a good salary, if he has not a wise little manager at home, he can get right on steadily earning and in the years that are to come, when he will no longer be a young John, will wake up to the disheartening knowledge that while he has toiled faithfully all the years, he has nothing to show for it.

Therefore at the very start of married life let all the young wives make this resolution that each payday they will put away some of their salary. Get the saving habit to be prudent is not to be parsimonious. Don't spend with a lavish, thoughtless hand what John works so hard to earn.

Decide to be a good manager, for on you largely depends the future success of both. When you have been married ten or fifteen years you will want to be in a home of your own. Make this possible by starting inside your income and saving some each payday, whatever your income may be.

beat in the well-beaten yolks of two eggs, stir smooth and serve.
Lamb Chops, Rector Style.
Make one pint of mixture for potatoes duchesse and force it through a pastry tube around the edge of an oval steak plank. In the center arrange for each person, one slice of broiled Virginia ham, on which a large broiled chop is placed, the bone garnished with a paper frill. At the ends of the plank place an artichoke bottom for each person which has been heated by sauteing in melted butter and seasoned with salt and pepper.

Each one of these should be filled with Potatoes Rector and the garnish may further consist of broiled mushroom caps and parsley or cress. The Potatoes Rector are done in this fashion. Wash, pare and shape potatoes, flag one of the French vegetable cutters. Place in ice water until wanted, then dry in a towel, fry in deep fat, drain on brown paper and sprinkle lightly with salt.

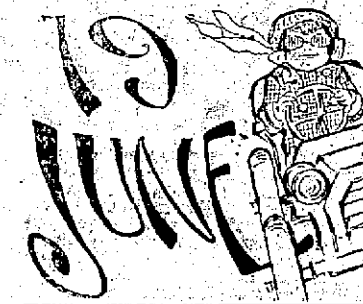

Escalloped Corn.
Wipe a small green pepper; cut in half and remove the seeds; then cut the inside into strips. Cook this in two tablespoonfuls of butter for five minutes with one-half an onion finely minced stirring constantly, let it get too brown. Add two tablespoonfuls of flour, one teaspoonful salt, one-half teaspoonful mustard, and a dash of cayenne and stir until well blended; then pour over it one-half a cup of sweet milk.

Bring to the boiling point, then add one cupful of canned corn, the beaten yolk of an egg, one-half cupful of stale bread crumbs broken in tiny pieces and browned in a tablespoonful of butter. Turn into a buttered mold, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until the top is browned.

Creamed Potatoes.
Cut cold boiled potatoes in small cubes a half inch across, and for two cupfuls of potatoes allow three tablespoonfuls melted butter. Cook together three minutes, seasoning with salt, pepper, and a dash of paprika. Then sprinkle over two tablespoonfuls of flour, add one cupful of thin cream and cook very slowly on the back of the range, covered, for twenty minutes.

German Tomato Salad.
Chill as many small tomatoes as there are persons to be served, peel them, then cut in eighths without entirely covering the sections, that they may be opened in the shape of a flower. In the center of each one place a teaspoonful of pearl onions and serve with French dressing or mayonnaise. They are more attractive if served in a bed of crisp lettuce leaves.

Cheese Drops.
Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add three and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour and rub together until smooth. Remove from the fire and add four tablespoonfuls American cheese grated, one-fourth teaspoon of salt and a dash of cayenne. Fold in the stiffly-beaten whites of three eggs and drop from the end of a spoon on a buttered baking sheet about one inch apart and bake from twelve to fourteen minutes in a moderate oven. Serve hot on a folded napkin with a salad course.

PARADE AT BELOIT OPEN FOR FARMERS

Committee of Fourth of July Celebration Provide Special Prizes For Agricultural Floats.

The parade committee has announced today that a farmers' class will be provided in the Fourth of July parade. Fifty dollars in cash will be given for the best float; $25 for the second prize and $10 for the third prize.

The chief reason why farmers have not been represented better in affairs heretofore was because they felt that they could not compete in a parade along with the merchants and manufacturers.

The trouble will be overcome this year by making a farmers' class. The far sightedness of the committee is worthy of comment and it will surely be the means of bringing in a host of farm floats.

Those which are already under consideration are: a dairy float, a nursery float, a float representing the grain industry, and a gardener's float.

Plenty of facilities are being made ready for the comfort of the large crowds who will spend the Fourth in Beloit.

BAPTISTS TO HOLD DISTRICT MEETING

Hundred Delegates Expected in City Next Week for Annual Session of Janesville Association.

One hundred or more delegates to the fifty-second annual session of the Janesville Baptist association are expected in this city for the meetings which will be held at the First Baptist church Tuesday and Wednesday, June 24 and 25. The association includes churches in Afton, Albany, Beloit, Brodhead, Clinton, Evansville, Janesville, Juda, Monroe, Monticello and Union.

At the business sessions the reports of the committees for this district will be heard and the district report formulated for presentation to the Northern Baptist convention. Committees will also be appointed and other important business transacted. The principal address of the session will be given on Tuesday evening by Dr. F. W. Meyer of Milwaukee, a prominent speaker of the denomination on the topic, "The Stranger Within Our Gates."

Dinner Stories

"Once upon a time," tells President Wilson, "there was a certain young lady in England who became smitten with a young lady. He was granted permission to call upon her."

"So anxious was he to meet his admirer one that he called a little before the appointed time. The young lady was ready, however, but not her mother, who was to act as chaperon.

"The young man was shown into the parlor, and the young lady went there to await him until mamma should have completed her toilet."

"Naturally, the preliminaries of the conversation were carried on rather nervously. To add to the young people's confusion the girl's nose began to bleed. 'Do what they could the flow would not stop. Suddenly the young man remembered he had heard that a piece of cold metal, such as a door key, applied to the back of the neck, was efficacious in such circumstances. So he ran to the door, seized the key, but in his trepidation, before extracting it, he turned it so that the door was locked."

"Hastening to the young lady, he placed the key to the name of her neck, but in his nervous anxiety, he let go of it and it slipped down her back."

"To make matters just as bad as they could be, at this moment mamma's footsteps were heard on the stairs."

"Now, I have heard it discussed what should be done in these extremely distressing circumstances," says Mr. Wilson. "For 'what the young man had to get that key at any cost!'"

MATRIMONIAL.

Glosson-Griffin. Miss Amelia Glosson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Glosson of Stoughton, and Frank Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Griffin, 1120 Pleasant street, were united in marriage at six-thirty o'clock this morning at St. Patrick's church. Dean E. E. Reilly performed the ceremony. The young couple was attended by Miss Lillian Griffin and J. Griffin. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's parents and Mr. and Mrs. Griffin left at ten o'clock for Stoughton, where they will visit. They will also spend a few days in Chicago before returning to Janesville to make their home.

Out of town guests here for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clifford, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Daily, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Speckley, all of Chicago.

To Kill Odor of Onions. To kill the odor of onions on the breath eat lemon- afterward or drink strong lemonade. Many persons who never eat onions in any other form cannot very well avoid them in some salads which would taste exceedingly flat without this vegetable.

NINETY-ONE POUNDS OF MAIL HANDLED

BY CARRIER DAILY

Detailed Account Kept of Amount of Letters Carried by City and Rural Postmen During a Week.

Each of the eleven Janesville city mail carriers carries a total of 778 pieces of mail daily, weighing in the aggregate ninety-one pounds, according to the figures compiled by the local postoffice officials during the week June 9 to 15.

An accurate account was kept of the number of pieces of mail received and distributed, the weight of the same, and the number of miles traveled by the carriers in response to an order of the postoffice department at Washington, applying to all postoffices in the United States.

This order was issued for the purpose of determining exactly the cost of maintaining and operating the postoffice and to figure the rates due to train service. The postoffice men were also compelled to keep track of the rural route mail for the entire month of June.

After weighing and counting the mail it was found that there were 897 pounds of letters, or 37,252 received and distributed during the six days. The total weight of all mail received was 6,034 pounds, or 51,168 pieces.

Each of the eleven carriers employed in this city to gather and distribute the mail, and each walked an average of twelve miles during each day, according to pedometers which they carried during the week. Each man carries a total of 559 pounds of mail a week. In eight days the mailman has walked a distance equal to that from Janesville to Chicago.

It is claimed by the local postoffice officials that the week that the government set for the test had been the lightest of the year, the carriers only having to work on an average of seven hours and thirteen minutes, while at other times they are forced to work eight hours.

The city of Janesville has seventy mail boxes in various parts of the city and the carriers make collections in the business districts from four to eight times a day and twice in the residence portion of the city. By actual count it was found that only 72 per cent of the residences had mail boxes, and the business houses only had 65 per cent.

Postmaster Valentin is urgent in his plea for the citizens to equip their houses and business offices with mail receptacles so as to promote quicker and more efficient service among the mailmen. The carriers make two and three trips a day to the mailboxes, and it was found that the mailmen handled an average of 18 and a half letters every minute during their working hours and handled an average of 778 pieces of mail at a rate of 14 and a half a minute.

The postoffice employees have welcomed the fact that the week of counting and weighing is over, for it meant a large amount of extra work. The report was carefully made out so as to insure exactness.

BRASS THIEF GETS TWENTY DAYS TERM

John Smith, a Stranger, Pleads Guilty to Stealing Metal From Evansville Waterworks Today.

John Smith, a stranger claiming Madison as his home, was this morning sentenced to twenty days' imprisonment in the county jail on his pleading guilty in the municipal court to stealing twenty-five pounds of brass worth ten dollars from the Evansville Waterworks and electric plant, a municipal institution. The theft was committed early this morning, the brass, consisting of pipe couplings and machinery parts, being taken from a storage room, the door of which Smith found conveniently open. He made an unsuccessful attempt to sell the brass to a junk dealer and "planted" his booty with the intention of disposing of it later.

Smith was one of the sorriest looking objects that has been seen in the municipal court in many a day, the only recognizable part of his clothing being a pair of shoes. He had one hand tied up in a large white rag and in answer to the question of the judge as to what was the matter with it, he said that the hand had recently been operated upon.

Smith was brought from Evansville by Assistant Chief of Police F. W. Gilman, who made out the complaint.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

THE JAW.

By Howard L. Rann.

The jaw is a restless annex to the human face which is seldom where it can be seen and heard with great ease. It is the home of the will, but also secretes movable teeth and several thousand yards of back talk.

The jaw has two important functions, which keep it busy fourteen hours a day. One of these is to reduce the proud and austere beefsteak with a sliding motion, and the other is to deliver certain lectures. If it were not for the jaw every home would be a hospital for indigestion and belated husbands would not have to crawl up the front stairs in their stocking feet and be interrupted in the act of making an eloquent lie by the accusing voice of the town clock.

There are two kinds of jaws—round and square. The round jaw is the prettier of the two, as it usually contains the high-powered ornament known as the dimple, but it is not so useful in a joint debate or an argument with the grocer, as it is liable to give in and stung with green bananas and withered sweet corn. The best specimen of square jaws now worn in this country is that used by Woodrow Wilson, who inherited it in early youth and pointed it in the direction of congress every few days. This is highly exasperating to congress, which runs quite extensively to jaw itself and does not care for any competition.

A good deal has been written and sung about the feminine jaw, mainly by disgruntled husbands who are about as delightful a household net as the heliograph. This is a base lie on the part of the fair sex, who seldom take an active part in the conversations unless forced into it. On the other hand, all that is necessary to trip a man's jaw faster than a water meter is to let him know that you have a ball and a headline about T. R.

The jaw is used considerably in prize-fighting, and if struck with sufficient feeling will produce a drowsy feeling of the part of the struckee. The most famous jawbone recorded in history, is the one with which Samson slew a thousand men, but there are some on the Chautauqua circuit that are almost as deadly.

The Argyle Case

A Novelization by J. W. McCaughy of the Successful New Play by Harriet Ford, Harvey J. O'Higgins and Detective William J. Burns, in Which Robert Hilliard Is Appearing :: ::

Copyright, 1912, by Journal-American-Examiner.

Mr. Hurley found a chair and settled himself comfortably for a chat. Kayton moved about the room like a restless bird dog as he talked, but occasionally confronting the lawyer and fixing him with a keen gaze.

"I suppose," said the latter, "it will take some time. There are so many ways the thing might possibly have occurred."

"As for instance?" suggested Kayton instantly.

Mr. Hurley was a trifle taken aback at this sudden challenge, but he replied promptly enough:

"Well, let us suppose that this criminal obtained entry either by the connivance of one of the servants or, possibly, one of them lost a key or in some way that the investigations have not yet disclosed. He is discovered by Mr. Argyle who threatens him with a revolver and in the struggle that ensues the murder results."

Kayton smiles almost imperceptibly. "And how does your theory account for the fact that throughout this struggle a struggle, you'll notice, in which several blows were exchanged, judging by the marks on the face and chest—how do you account for the fact that Mr. Argyle made no outcry?"

"His outcry may not have been heard," replied the lawyer readily.

"Very true," nodded Kayton. "Of course," continued Mr. Hurley, "the argument against the burglar theory is that nothing was stolen, although the burglar may have been frightened away."

"You're convinced, then, that it was a burglar?" asked Kayton.

"Well, ah—no," confessed the lawyer with some hesitation. "I was merely canvassing that idea. There seems to be a lack of motive otherwise, or rather a large discrepancy between the nature of the crime and the character of the only person who might have had a motive."

"Miss Mazure?" said Kayton in a matter of fact tone.

"Oh, it couldn't be Miss Mazure!" protested the lawyer instantly. "It's incredible that a girl like her could be involved in a thing of this sort. Besides, how was she to know that if he died at that particular moment she would be the sole heir under the will?"

"Oh, the will was secret?" inquired Kayton.

Mr. Hurley hesitated. "Well, now, Mr. Kayton, I'll tell you about that," he said slowly. "My client had an idea that is not uncommon among millionaires. He had an almost morbid apprehension of his heirs waiting to inherit his estate—a somewhat superstitious fear of the concentrated expectations of legatees. In fact, he didn't want any one to know who was to benefit by his death. In the last few days of his life, when he contemplated reinstating his son, he was particularly insistent on secrecy. The thing was an obsession, you understand."

Kayton nodded. "Did the son know that he had been disinherited?"

"I doubt it," replied Mr. Hurley, "but if you allow for the night of his death," pursued Kayton gravely.

The new head of the family looked very serious. "Yes, that's true," he said; "I was. I had dinner with Mary and him."

"Was that unusual?" inquired the detective.

The young man hesitated a bare instant. "Well, you know, I suppose that father and I didn't put it off any too well together," he replied uncomfortably. "You see, he was that kind of a man—he couldn't stand any one around who wanted to do any thinking for himself. He had his own ideas about things, and if you stood up against them there was trouble all along the line. I broke away—about a year ago—when he hesitated again in some embarrassment—when he objected to my marrying Miss Thompson, and Mary has been trying ever since to bring us together. That night—his voice trembled slightly—that night we had a fine time. She was as happy as could be about it, because father and I were on good terms again. She went to her room early and left us here to have a talk."

Kayton's face betrayed absolutely nothing of any impression he may have gained from this little tale.

"Did your father seem worried about anything?" he asked. Bruce thought for a moment and replied:

"He had a telephone call that disturbed him a good deal while I was here."

"What time was it?"

"Why, about 10."

"Did he receive it himself?"

"Yes, he was called on his private wire right here," Argyle indicated the desk phone.

"What did he say?"

"I can't remember," replied the young man slowly, "except that it was 'he' and 'yes' and 'no.' I thought it was some of his business affairs, and he seemed to want to think it over, so I left soon after."

"Where did you spend the night?" inquired the detective.

"In my studio, where I live."

"How did you get there—a taxi?"

"No; I walked."

"When did it begin to rain?"

"Rain?" echoed Argyle. "I didn't know it did rain."

"Did any one see you go into your studio?"

"Not that I know of," replied the young man, with a shake of the head.

"Why, of course, Mr. Hurley," agreed Kayton readily, and before Bruce could open up a new attack he skillfully shifted the ground of the conversation.

"You understand, Mr. Argyle," he said with dignity, "that you are now the head of the family here, and the responsibility for the success or failure of this investigation will rest largely with you. I'll have to ask for your co-operation in everything, and I'll expect that you'll consult with me before you make any move or express any opinion or do anything that has a bearing on this case."

"Certainly," returned young Argyle, again completely the well-bred, self-contained young man. "I understand that, Mr. Kayton."

"Well," said Argyle doubtfully, "you know I have the rear of a top floor in an old Twenty-third street house with a skylight."

"Didn't you hear the rain on your skylight?" demanded Kayton swiftly.

"I tell you I didn't know it rained," declared the young man, with some peevishness. The best nerves and clearest conscience feel the effect of this sort of an examination. "I go to bed early," he explained, "and I get up as soon as there's light enough to work."

"Mr. Kayton," interposed the lawyer, "do you see anything significant in that telephone message?"

Kayton stared at the lawyer for a moment or two as if he had never seen him before. His abstraction seemed complete. Then his eyes slowly returned to Argyle's and he said slowly:

"Then you don't know of any way in which you can corroborate your statement that you left here about 10 o'clock and spent the rest of the night in your studio?"

Bruce was silent, and Kayton waited.

"No—no, I don't," said the young man in a low voice.

"Nobody saw you, you think—nobody saw you leave here?"

Again there was the barest hesitation and the low voice.

"No—no."

"You didn't see Finley?" Kayton's eyes were on the young man's face with piercing keenness, as if to read unspoken answers.

"No, I didn't see Finley at all." This answer came swiftly, as the detective expected it would. He shrugged his shoulders and half turned away.

"Mr. Argyle," he said coldly, "I don't want to be put in the position of cross-examining you. If you are not going to give me your confidence—it would be better for me to drop the whole matter, right here."

What Cures Eczema?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash, or Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription, can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it, and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D.D.D. Prescription.

"You were the last person known to be with your father on the night of his death," pursued Kayton gravely.

The new head of the family looked very serious. "Yes, that's true," he said; "I was. I had dinner with Mary and him."

"Was that unusual?" inquired the detective.

The young man hesitated a bare instant. "Well, you know, I suppose that father and I didn't put it off any too well together," he replied uncomfortably. "You see, he was that kind of a man—he couldn't stand any one around who wanted to do any thinking for himself. He had his own ideas about things, and if you stood up against them there was trouble all along the line. I broke away—about a year ago—when he hesitated again in some embarrassment—when he objected to my marrying Miss Thompson, and Mary has been trying ever since to bring us together. That night—his voice trembled slightly—that night we had a fine time. She was as happy as could be about it, because father and I were on good terms again. She went to her room early and left us here to have a talk."

Kayton's face betrayed absolutely nothing of any impression he may have gained from this little tale.

"Did your father seem worried about anything?" he asked. Bruce thought for a moment and replied:

"He had a telephone call that disturbed him a good deal while I was here."

"What time was it?"

"Why, about 10."

"Did he receive it himself?"

"Yes, he was called on his private wire right here," Argyle indicated the desk phone.

"What did he say?"

"I can't remember," replied the young man slowly, "except that it was 'he' and 'yes' and 'no.' I thought it was some of his business affairs, and he seemed to want to think it over, so I left soon after."

"Where did you spend the night?" inquired the detective.

"In my studio, where I live."

"How did you get there—a taxi?"

"No; I walked."

"When did it begin to rain?"

"Rain?" echoed Argyle. "I didn't know it did rain."

"Did any one see you go into your studio?"

"Not that I know of," replied the young man, with a shake of the head.

"Why, of course, Mr. Hurley," agreed Kayton readily, and before Bruce could open up a new attack he skillfully shifted the ground of the conversation.

"You understand, Mr. Argyle," he said with dignity, "that you are now the head of the family here, and the responsibility for the success or failure of this investigation will rest largely with you. I'll have to ask for your co-operation in everything, and I'll expect that you'll consult with me before you make any move or express any opinion or do anything that has a bearing on this case."

"Certainly," returned young Argyle, again completely the well-bred, self-contained young man. "I understand that, Mr. Kayton."

"Well," said Argyle doubtfully, "you know I have the rear of a top floor in an old Twenty-third street house with a skylight."

"Didn't you hear the rain on your skylight?" demanded Kayton swiftly.

"I tell you I didn't know it rained," declared the young man, with some peevishness. The best nerves and clearest conscience feel the effect of this sort of an examination. "I go to bed early," he explained, "and I get up as soon as there's light enough to work."

"Mr. Kayton," interposed the lawyer, "do you see anything significant in that telephone message?"

Kayton stared at the lawyer for a moment or two as if he had never seen him before. His abstraction seemed complete. Then his eyes slowly returned to Argyle's and he said slowly:

"Then you don't know of any way in which you can corroborate your statement that you left here about 10 o'clock and spent the rest of the night in your studio?"

Bruce was silent, and Kayton waited.

"No—no, I don't," said the young man in a low voice.

"Nobody saw you, you think—nobody saw you leave here?"

Again there was the barest hesitation and the low voice.

"No—no."

"You didn't see Finley?" Kayton's eyes were on the young man's face with piercing keenness, as if to read unspoken answers.

"No, I didn't see Finley at all." This answer came swiftly, as the detective expected it would. He shrugged his shoulders and half turned away.

"Mr. Argyle," he said coldly, "I don't want to be put in the position of cross-examining you. If you are not going to give me your confidence—it would be better for me to drop the whole matter, right here."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Never Even Tepid.

"Have you hot water in your house?" "Have I? My dear boy, I am never out of it."

A word meaning not strong.

What Cures Eczema?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash, or Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription, can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it, and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D.D.D. Prescription.

Don't Feed Up Your Profits This Year Into Horses Or Mules

Now is the time to settle the question of whether you are going to feed up about one-fourth of your this year's crop into horses or mules. Statistics show that it takes that much to keep them. They eat every day but they average only about 100 full days' work—the other 255 days you have to feed them all for nothing.

That's why so many men are changing to Tractor Farming. A Tractor eats nothing when not working. And even when working it costs less than to feed horses. Records kept by men who have replaced their horses with Avery Tractors and Plows show a saving of over half the expense of horse plowing and a big saving in expense on other farm work. Also easier on the men and bigger crops by doing the work quick at the right time.

Avery Tractors and Plows make Power Farming a success on any size farm. 3 sizes—12-25 H. P., pulling 3 to 4 plows and turning 10 to 12 acres per day, for small farms. 20-35 H. P., pulling 5 to 6 plows and turning 15 to 18 acres per day, for medium sized farms. 40-50 H. P., pulling 8 to 10 plows and turning 25 to 30 acres per day, for large farms.

Because they are "Light-Weight" (12-25 H. P. less than 7,500 pounds, 20-35 H. P. less than 11,500 pounds and 40-50 H. P. only 20,000 pounds) they don't get stuck in mud or waste fuel like heavy-weight Tractors. This is a big point to note. Also the Simplest Tractors built. Bump, gasolene or kerosene.

There's no other plowlike an Avery "Self Lift." With it, one man or boy can handle the entire outfit alone. Plows handled entirely by power taken from the plow wheels.

SOLD ON APPROVAL—AT LOW PRICES AND FULLY GUARANTEED

When you buy on each week at the Low Price—only $120.00 for 12-25 H. P. Tractor, $200.00 for 20-35 H. P. and $300.00 for 40-50 H. P. Tractor. We will send you a complete book of Avery Tractors and Plows. Ask for new 1913 Complete Book of Avery Tractors and Plows. Free Power Farming Facts and full information about the Avery Tractor, Plow and other farm machinery.
